

Provision of company property

During employment with LexisNexis, you will be provided with company property, such as IT equipment, security ID card, company car (where applicable).

Please read the paragraph below and sign to agree that you accept these terms.

I understand that all items I am provided with are for use in the execution of my duties during my employment with the Company, and at all times will remain property of the Company.

I confirm that I shall return all items in a condition satisfactory to the Company at the end of my employment. Should any of these items not be returned (or damaged where such damage is the result of gross negligence, recklessness or deliberate damage), an amount equal to the replacement cost will be deducted from any outstanding monies due together with any reasonable and/or legal costs incurred in securing its return.
